

Case # 23

A teacher aged 40 drew below drawing within two sessions. Client called it a diagram. Single and highly intellectual individual who believed has no drawing talent yet, preferred to show own concerns within below diagrams. Client was very unhappy about living condition and was in process of taking decision to move on within existing condition or leave the place and start all over again.

One month later individual moved away into place that planned to do so and got the desired job. Individual said: "I was waiting to draw this diagram, of course with laughter and jokingly."

Below drawing if you look carefully in the left you will recognize the figure and arrow showing direction and lots of descriptive writings about ideas at the moment.

First part is containing numbers; all about calculation of time and money

Second part is about distraction of desired matter to reach into subject matter of mindfulness.

Third part is about the path of life and block element and then continuation of thoughts in which showing back into subject matter of path of life.

There is relation between second part and continuation of thoughts.

The conflict was all about time and financial situation that needed to be calculate and then take a necessary steps and possibly risks and indeed client did it.
